Recovered from Her Illness and Followed Him from England.

Cleverly Lured to the Hoffman House and Arrested.

Luke Harrigan, who has been wanted by the police since last December, is w in their custody.

Luke is thirty years old, big, brawny and foxy. He formerly lived in Brookyn, but refuses to give his address now. Last August Inspector McLaughlin was handed a despatch from the Scot-land Yard authorities, asking for Luke's arrest on a charge of larceny. The story which the London detectives had Harrigan had met and wooed a young Irish girl in this city, whose name was Florence K. Clarke. She had inherited a little money, and had saved a little more, and her savings, carefully guarded, amounted to $1,550.

Harrigan, under promise of marriage, rot her to lend him this money to pay got her to lend him this money to pay the expenses of a trip to London, where, he explained, he had friends and a lucrative position waiting for him. The girl gave him the money and went with him to England.

Soon after their arrival Florence was taken sick, and darrigan ran away, leaving her penuliess in a boarding-house. He immediately sailed for New York with the last of the money he had obtained from his trusting flancee.

This was the condition of affairs that Scotland Yard had discovered, and Inspector McLaughlin sent Detective Price out to get Harrigan and the latter was run down within three days. Then began a long fight to obtain extradition papers, which proved unsuccessful in the end. President Cleveland was convinced that the crime happened in this country, and refused to sign the papers. So Harrigan was released.
